

Xenium HR hires new Human Resource Business Partner

Gina Todd, an experienced HR and education professional, joins Xenium HR as Human Resource Business Partner.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE--

Tualatin, Oregon – September 7, 2010 - Xenium HR, a human resources and employer services firm, hires Gina Todd as a Human Resource Business Partner to join a team of 16 human resource professionals.

Todd comes to Xenium with 17 years of experience in management, human resources and secondary education. In 2002, Todd was the Director of Schoolhouse Supplies, a non-profit organization in Portland and long-time Xenium client.

Xenium President, Anne Donovan, states, "Gina will be a natural fit into the Xenium culture. We believe she can contribute right away given her experience and background. We're particularly excited to have her jump into our training curriculum. With years of experience in classroom development, she has an opportunity to greatly enhance our training programs for clients."

Of her 17 years of experience, the past two Todd has spent in a Senior Human Resource Generalist role for Ensequence, Inc., a privately-owned technology company with offices in downtown Portland and in NYC.

Xenium is an HR and Employer Services provider who serves companies with limited to no internal HR resources, and those that have internal staff who can benefit from specialized support and training. Xenium also manages the most successful Professional Employer Organization (PEO) in the Pacific NW, giving small and medium-sized companies access to best practice advice and an economy of scale for integrated services including HR, payroll, group health benefits, 401(k), and Workers' Compensation.
