

Xenium HR Hires Client Development Manager

Xenium HR hires Shelley Cooper, a sales professional with 20 years of experience as a Client Development Manager.

October 27, 2010 – Tualatin, OR – Xenium HR, a human resources and employer services firm in the Portland area, hires Shelley Cooper, a sales professional with over 20 years of experience, to join an established business development team.

Cooper joins Xenium HR after two years as a Staffing Consultant with AppleOne, five years as a National Accounts Manager with Hollywood Entertainment and four years with Boly/Welch Staffing as a Client Services Representative. Cooper also obtained a Bachelors Degree in Business from Portland State University.

Xenium President Anne Donovan states, "Given her strong sales and staffing background, Shelley will undoubtedly be a perfect addition to Xenium's business development team."

Xenium is an HR and Employer Services provider who serves companies with limited to no internal HR resources, and those that have internal staff who can benefit from specialized support and training. Xenium also manages the most successful Professional Employer Organization (PEO) in the Pacific NW, giving small and medium-sized companies access to best practice advice and an economy of scale for integrated services including HR, payroll, group health benefits, 401(k), and Workers' Compensation.
